An Adult's Position

I know I shouldn't force these things, but it's been making me anxious...
It's been a while since classes have started but I feel like there's still a distance between me and the students.
But there's an adult mixed in with the kids and they approach him without any fear...

This is something an inexperienced person like myself can't grant them!
For someone like Takashi-kun who has been in 4th grade for 11 years making the kids open up comes naturally to him!
This is the first time you've invited me to the bar sensei...
... So that's how it is. Please tell me how I can become popular with the kids...
